CASH RAISED FOR RED CROSS IS NOW $4,653.02

Committees Industriously Working to Secure the Required Amount Before Saturday Night—Business Men and Women of the City Giving Up Practically All Their Time to the Work.

Too much cannot well be said in praise of the earnest work that is being done by the ladies and gentlemen who are working on the various committees soliciting funds for the Red Cross in the present campaign, the real work of which began yesterday. In addition to the subscriptions they have made they are giving up their time from their homes and business and every day this week will "work for the Red Cross and humanity."

How much are you doing, Mr. or Mrs. Reader?

President Wilson asks that every wage-earner give at least one day's salary to the Red Cross. Have you done your duty? Are you going to do it?

The reputation of the city of Alexandria is at stake and it is the duty of every one of its citizens to see that its reputation for good is maintained, and if it is upheld the sum of $12,000 must be raised by Saturday night. Giving to the Red Cross is giving to the greatest and best charity in the world. Do your part.

The total amount raised in the city yesterday was $3,175.67.

At the luncheon tendered to the workers today noon at the Westminster building by Mr. Robert S. Jones, the various committees reported that the amount obtained last night and so far today was $1,477.35, making a grand total for the two days of $4,653.02. About $250 of that sum was taken in on the streets and at the "Community Sing" at Christ church yard last night.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Alexandria Red Cross held last night, Mr. Orlando H. Kirk was elected treasurer for the campaign.

POLICEMEN ARE KILLED

Three Officers of the Law Shot by a Desperate Negro In Washington Last Night.

Jeopardizing their lives, Detective William Wright, of the Sixth precinct, and Lieut. William H. Bremerman, of the Second precinct, Washington, today entered a house at 1400 Carrollburg place southwest, and captured Herman L. Copeland, colored, who had killed two policemen and a deputy sheriff.

Fleeing from a house at 76 I street northeast, after shooting and killing Policeman John A. Conrad and Deputy Sheriff L. H. McParlan, of Indian Head, Md., who, with William H. Niles, superintendent for Austin Bros., contractors at Indian Head, had gone to the house to serve a summons on him, Copeland ran to the Carrollburg street house.

The police surrounded the house and stood off as the negro fired at them. A score of shots were exchanged, but the police feared entering.

Lieut. David T. Dunnigan, of the Fourth precinct, forced the front door, and as he was about to enter the house, Copeland fired a shot, which struck the lieutenant and he fell dead on the doorstep.

Stirred by the death of the police official, Detective Wright challenged his fellow officers.

"I'll go in and get that fellow, if any one will go with me," he shouted.

For a moment, not a man spoke.

Lieutenant Bremerman then spoke up.

"I'll go with you," he answered, and the two entered.

There was a flash. The negro had shot at Detective Wright, but the officer rushed for the negro and he disappeared into a rear room.

"Come on, Lieutenant," shouted Wright.

Another shot rang out as the officers entered the room.

"I'll kill any one who enters," shouted the negro. "Get out" and he fired again.

The two policemen entered the room. It was dark, and they could not see Copeland. They searched a closet, believing the negro was hiding in it. He was not.

Then they heard a revolver click. The sound came from under a bed. Wright overturned the bed and grabbed Copeland.

Once in the hands of Bremerman and Wright, the negro became meek. He was suffering from four bullet wounds, one in his back and three in his breast.

Weak from loss of blood, the negro was taken to Casualty Hospital. His condition is serious, but Drs. Nolanad and Rawson, who attended him, say he has a chance to recover. His most dangerous wound is under his heart.

It was 1 o'clock this morning when Copeland began firing at the officers when an attempt was made to serve a summons on him as a witness. Copeland had told relatives he was wanted by the police of Birmingham, Ala.

Adjourned Meeting Tonight.

An adjourned meeting of the Common Counoil will be held tonight.

THIRD DAY OF COUNCIL

Bishop Appoints Social Service Commission of the Diocese of Virginia Morning Session.

Leesburg, May 17. — The council met as usual in St. James' church, Leesburg, with Bishop Gibson again presiding. After the minutes of the previous day were read the bishop appointed the social service commission of the diocese of Virginia, and the commission on Colonial churches for another year. The commission on Colonial churches has done a most important work for the preservation of these old churches which from their historic associations and simple dignity are a witness to the religious life of the Old Dominion. The committee on the state of the church referred to the war conditions in connection with the work of the church, urging the necessity of frequent and earnest prayer to the God of righteousness and truth for success and victory on the part of ourselves and our allies instead of trusting to might and arms alone. As many rectors are now in training camps, or at the front, the laymen of the church are called upon in case of lack of ministers to do their part in keeping regular services. The clergy were also reminded of the importance of placing honor rolls or service flags in their churches to keep in remembrance those of their parishoners who are serving their country in this righteous war against autocracy and barbarism.

Various reports were read by the chairman of their respective committees. Among these was that of the committee on a prayer mission of repentance, faith and humiliation before God requesting that the whole of this church be asked to set apart a period of time in the summer or fall for such a service that we may put ourselves in right relations with God so as to obtain His blessing upon our arms and those of our allies for true victory and a lasting peace. The report of the dean of the Theological Seminary, near Alexandria, showed how many of the students had given themselves to war service. It revealed that the students were not unmindful of their sacred duties to their country in these days of storm and stress to be followed at the last by a victory for liberty and righteousness.

The council closed sine die at 12 M. with the usual religious exercises conducted by Bishop Gibson.

This council did much work of lasting benefit for the diocese of Virginia. Its sessions were marked by faithfulness and devotion to the duties before it, and there was not a note of discord to mar the harmony of its proceedings.

The hospitality of the good people of Leesburg was unbounded and every member carried away delightful memories of the old town. It may be stated here that the care of The Gazette in following its traditions of publishing a full account of this council has been much appreciated by members of the Episcopal church in the diocese of Virginia, as it is understood that other secular papers in the state have been singularly negligent in giving any account of its late meeting in Leesburg.

The companion of Ducos succeeded in getting to land, but it is supposed that Ducos was stunned by striking his head against either the boat or a stone at the bottom of the river, which rendered him unconscious and caused him to drown. He was stationed at Camp Humphreys and was about 27 years old. His body was brought to Demaine's undertaking rooms and prepared for burial.

Yesterday evening the weather conditions permitting the most enjoyable of the series of "Community Sings" was held in Christ church yard, and the throngs in attendance attested to the popularity of these affairs. Mr. Gordon Reese, the Y. M. C. A. worker from Quantico, and the members of the band from that camp have become the most popular attraction in this city, and the announcement of a concert by them ensures a crowd. These entertainments are under the auspices of the secondary division of the Alexandria Sunday School Association. Last night Mr. Gardner L. Booth made a stirring appeal for the Red Cross and those present responded generously by pledges, though many were unprepared for cash contributions.

"Her One Mistake."

Miss Brockwell, the William Fox star, has earned a big reputation up to this time as a screen favorite, but the new play, "Her One Mistake," that will be seen at the Richmond Theater tonight, shows her to possess even greater ability than had been realized. In the drama which is by George Scarborough, who has a large reputation for successful works, Miss Brockwell plays two roles and presents them with vigor and convincing powers.

The whole play is absorbing and at times thrilling and exciting.

Although Major Hill stated that present conditions indicate that the shooting was justified, he has ordered a thorough investigation. A board is sitting to consider the circumstances.

Ayres was the proprietor of an alleged disorderly house, and when taken into custody is said to have pulled a revolver, which was knocked from his hands. A break for liberty followed and his was checked by a bullet from Kelley's automatic. The victim was removed to Seler Hospital where he is said to be in a critical condition.

WORK OF THE WAR CAMP COMMUNITY SERVICE

Established for the Purpose of Building up the Morale of the American Soldiers of the National Army—Its Results to the City as Well as the Soldiers.

The War Camp Community Service is an integral part of the system established by the government of the United States for the training and preparation of the soldiers and sailors in its camps and naval stations. It is carried on by the Recreation Association of America at the request of the Commissions on Training Camp Activities appointed by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy.

The work in no way duplicates that of any other organization. The war activities of the Y. M. C. A., of the K. of C. and American Library Association, all of them acting under the Commissions on Training Camp Activities and at their request, are wholly within the camps, while those of the War Camp Community Service are wholly in the cities outside the camps.

It is outside of the camps that the greatest dangers exist, and it is there that the greatest opportunities for exercising a beneficial influence are found. It is hoped that every denomination, club or little group, in the city of Alexandria, will give their hearty co-operation in furthering this work that is so essential for the moral, physica land spiritual welfare of our fighting men, and in so doing assist not only in building up the National Army, but also by giving yourself to the boys in uniform you will assist the city by developing a new spirit of democratic citizenship.

Monaca, Pa., May 21.—The Rev. H. S. Gilbert, pastor of the English Lutheran church, just missed a coat of tar and feathers.

Angered by his remarks and actions, a mob went to his home to find that he had been warned of its coming. Nelson H. Crumpeter and Alvin Vetter, who are said to have tipped off the minister were compelled to buy Liberty bonds and promised not to allow Gilbert to appear in his pulpit again.

AN APPEAL TO YOUR PATRIOTISM

Alexandria is asked to subscribe twelve thousand dollars to the SECOND RED CROSS WAR FUND.

One of Pershing's men yesterday declared that America had but one eye half opened. Is your's opened at all?

MEN and WOMEN representing the RED CROSS here are earnestly at work and are asking ALL TO DO THEIR BEST.

A ROLL of HONOR will be published and all CITIZENS will know WHO HAS and WHO HAS NOT supported the GOVERNMENT of the UNITED STATES.

THE SHIPBUILDING PLANT

Iron for the decks and hulls of the ships which are to be constructed at the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation is now arriving at that place, and huge cranes are being used in hoisting the plates from the railroad cars. Many men who have recently been employed as laborers have been furloughed, and within the next few days an army of shipbuilders will take their places.

The numerous buildings needed at the plant are nearing completion, and the keel of the first ship will be laid within the next few days.

The Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation has rushed the construction of their plant during the past four or five months. Beginning their labors in mid-winter, they have toiled in all sorts of weather until a small town has grown upon what a few years ago was an unsightly cove. The administrative office, a large and imposing structure, was completed some time ago, when the main office was removed from the Braddock House to Jones's Point. The fabricating shop is rapidly approaching completion, while a number of other buildings, finished recently, are awaiting the time when they will be utilized in the work of constructing iron steamships.

During the last thirty years Alexandrians have read of magic cities which have sprung up as did Aladdin's palace and have longed for booms to strike the old town. All have waited patiently many years while calling attention to our superior location for plants. While the heads of other concerns have placed their works here and there, ignoring this city and its claims, the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation realized that Alexandria, within a few miles of the Capital of the nation, is above all the place for monster plants and availed themselves of the opportunity afforded for locating their business here. The corporation has virtually asked nothing of our people. Their officials came here, looked over the ground, purchased what they desired and immediately started to work. The new town upon the old Baptizing Cove is the result of their enterprise. The Gazette wishes them the continued success which their labor merits.

RUSSIA'S FUTURE

Russia today is split into some ten separate republics and German-born principalities, all recognizing no central authority. But the pendulum is about to swing in the other direction. The revolution is about to turn to the way of sanity as soon as all the radical elements will have run their course.

Just now the anarchists are struggling to get into power. This is the last stage. After they are defeated, the whole gamut of radicalism will have been run, and the people, having experienced the folly of all the vagaries offered them as nostrums, will return to reason and practicability.

There is no doubt that the Bolshevik movement was aided and abetted by Germany. Consciously or unconsciously, the Bolsheviki were German tools.

The crimes of the Germans in Russia disgusted the Bolshevik masses, who were merely the dupes of the Teutons, and showed them Teutonic deceit in all its nakedness.

This meant that to Germany the usefulness of the Bolsheviki was fast approaching its end. But the Germans are resourceful. For this contingency they had prepared additional tools. Hence we see the spectacle of the anarchists beginning their struggle to supplant the Bolsheviki.

The last card which is being played by Germany will in all probability fail. The Bosheviki are far stronger numerically than the anarchists and have superior equipment of arms and munitions. The anarchists unquestionably have been supplied by Germany with arms for their revolt, but the Bolsheviki for a long time will have the superior equipment.

The anarchistic revolution will break down from the force of its own absurdity. The anarchists have no program beyond the division of the country's wealth among the poor. They have no plan for the production of wealth. Their radicalism is that of the Bolsheviki carried to an absurd extremity. Such a program cannot succeed.

After this anarchistic orgy will have spent itself the beginning of a reconstructive era in Russia will be at hand. That day is in the immediate future.

UNREST IN AUSTRIA

Disruption of the Austro-Hungarian dual monarchy is at hand. Dispatches from Budapest, Vienna and other points in Austria and Hungary, as well as from Berlin, indicate clearly that Emperor Karl is sitting on a volcano, which is emitting bursts of flame and threatens at any moment to break into full eruption.

Despite all that Kaiser Wilhelm and the imperial advisers can do to prevent it, the common people of the dual monarchy are rapidly approaching the point where the smallest provocation will bring about a revolution.

The Cabinet changes in Austria and Hungary, the Crown Council hastily called by the Kaiser at great headquarters to consider the Austrian problem, the territorial concessions made by Austria to Hungary and to Germany, all have for their purpose the prevention at all costs of the threatened dismemberment of the monarchy.

But the Slavs of southern Europe are dying of starvation and penury. They have suffered nearly four years as the vassals of Germany without realizing any of the grandiloquent promises made by their Emperor and Kaiser Wilhelm. They want freedom. And it is only a question of days when they will arise and demand it.

Vienna dispatches admit that the political situation is most desperate. Food riots are common. Austria cannot feed her own people, much less the Magyars of Hungary. She has turned to Germany for help, asking Berlin to ration some of the nations of Hungary. But Berlin, too, is hungry. Where is the food to come from?

Absolute famine before the first of July now menaces all of Austria-Hungary. It is this, together with the threat of revolution, that is believed to be delaying the Austrian offensive against Italy.

ANTI-LOAFING DRIVE

Determined to bring down the law on work slackers the police department of Baltimore has started a special effort to learn the identity of men who are violating the compulsory work law.

Marshal Carter said that this is no time for temporizing with idlers. The work law requires "every able-bodied male person between 18 and 50 years of age, inclusive, within the state not regularly or continuously employed or engaged in any lawful and useful business, occupation, trade or profession of any kind to register, if a resident of the city, with the clerk of the superior court."

Idlers have no excuse in these days for refraining from work. The demand for men was never more brisk in the history of the coutry, while the shortage of laborers is becoming more acute daily. This is seen in Alexandria, where it is impossible, at times, to procure men for urgent jobs. It is significant that proprietors of industries in this city apply at the station house for permission to pay fines which have been imposed upon negroes in order to secure their services.

BELFRIES SILENT

Silence, even more intense than for the past three and a half years, has fallen on Belgium, for no longer is the voice of the bells in the old belfries heard in the land, and even the organs are mute in the churches.

M. Emile Cammaerts, the Belgian poet, writes in the Spectator of this the last cruel stroke inflicted on his country. Cynical indeed is Germany's purpose. The bells and organ pipes are being sent to Essen to be converted into engines of destruction. They must be thrown today in Germany's melting pot, and their golden song, which floated over the peaceful meadows of Flanders and in the cool and shady streets of quiet towns, will become the rough bark of the guns.

The Christian Science Monitor says in the ears of a deeply sympathetic world nothing could be more eloquent than this quenching of the voice of a once free and independent Belgium.

YOUNG AUTOISTS HELD

Baltimore Police Want to Know If Car They Smashed Was Stolen.

Baltimore, Md., May 21.—Thought to have stolen the car in which they figured in two accidents last night, three young men of Petersburg, Va., are being held by the police of this city awaiting word from the Virginia authorities as to whether the car was stolen or, as the prisoners asserted, was lent to them by William T. Herbert, of Petersburg, its owner.

The men are James Covington, 23 years old, who was fined $120 and costs on three charges by Magistrate Staylor, in the Central police station, this morning; Harold Johnson, 20 years old, and Waverly Plunkett, 17 years old, all of Petersburg. Covington and Plunkett arrived in the city in the machine yesterday and met Johnson, who has been living in Baltimore for several days. They rode around the city for some time and yesterday afternoon Covington and Plunkett, while going east on Baltimore street, smashed into a wagon of the Miller Creamery Company at Baltimore and Lloyd streets.

They failed to stop, and a short while later they figured in another crash at Pratt street and Market place. A car of Nathan Michaelson, 918 East Baltimore street, was struck and the men abandoned the car. The police were notified and the men arrested later by Sergeant Stempel, of the Central district.

Johnson and Plunkett were held pending word from the Virginia authorities. Covington paid his fine.

UNRESTRICTED WARFARE.

German Submarines Sinking Norwegian Fighting Vessels.

Christiania, Norway, May 21.—German submarines again have started unrestricted warfare on Norwegian fishing boats in the Artic Ocean north and east of the Norwegian coast. Fisherman saved from sunken vessels and landed at Hammerfest report that the commander of a u-boat stated that all vessels met by him would be sunk. Norwegian ships especially would be destroyed because, he said, the Norwegians were sending fish oil and seal oil to England. This, however, is contrary to the truth, as the export of oils is forbidden and Germany knows it.

The U-boats are said to shell vessels without warning and according to the survivors, direct a fire against lifeboats.

Russian fishing boats and a Russian mail steamer from Vardoe, eastward bound and overcrowded with passengers, also was shelled. Eight persons, among them a postmaster and his assistants were killed on the deck of the steamer. Many others were hurt after taking to the boats.

When the commander of one German submarine was advised that Russia was at peace with Germany he answered that he acted the way it suited him. The U-boat measured 180 feet in length, and surprise is caused in shipping circles that it can carry enough oil for a cruise so far up the Norwegian coast.

Great bitterness has been caused among the Norwegian population by the action of the submarines, as Germany gets a large part of the fish caught around these places. The newspapers suggest that fishermen stop selling their catch to Germany.

Prize Cattle

There are any quantity of fine cattle, of all breeds, in this country today and the man who gets the prizes must have just a little more knowledge than the other breeder to get that last fine point, which wins the prize.

One of the "trade secrets" of the prize winners, in every breed, is that of the best food for the calves.

What do you suppose the prize Jerseys and Shorthorns and all the others are raised on?

It's Holstein milk..

Holstein milk is so much better than any other for a "baby cow" that breeders keep Holsteins just to feed their future prize winners.

Prize wining babies are raised on Holstein milk to.

Featherstone milk is from Holsteins, properly fed and cared for.

Do you want a prize winning baby?

Guess where to get the food which produces them.

"They Are Our Boys; Get Ready, Everyone, for a Rush!"

The long train of freight cars whined and grumbled as it strove to stop. In the doorway of a great low building a white capped and gowned woman released a sunny smile and, turning so her voice carried into the building, called out, "They are ours; get ready for a rush."

Just how she could tell they were "ours" would be hard to explain, for at the moment she spoke hundreds of the dirtiest, grizzliest men a woman ever saw came fairly tumbling out of the freight cars. A moment more she was welcoming this muddy rabble with a laugh and cheering words.

Inside the building there were more women, all spick and span in white, with faces beaming, handing out good "home cooked" food over spotless tiled counters. Some of the boys fairly ran for the food; others went into the long batteries of baths, throwing out their vermin ridden clothes to be sterilized while they scrubbed their bodies back to a healthy glow.

What luxury it all was—food, tables, chairs, things to read, games to play, paper for writing, a barber shop, a movie theater and good, clean beds!

No one ever thought that these happy, smiling women might be tired, nor were they tired then, even though all day long they had been serving train after train of French and English troops, literally thousands of them. Yet what did that matter? For these boys that came at the end of a long day—these boys are "ours."

If your boy is in France you may be sure he has a song of praise for the fine women at work in the railway canteens of our own Red Cross, for at every important railway junction there is one of our Red Cross canteens and at each canteen there are 18 women—real, true American women.

SPEAKING OF MONEY

Just How the Goodfields—The Stingiest Couple in Town—Helped the Red Cross

By BOOTH TARKINGTON
Of the Vigilantes.

"Speaking of money," said my seafaring friend of the Maine coast, "we used to have an old man here named Goodfield. When he was young he used to sing in the church choir—that didn't cost nothin'—and married one of the Emberses, but didn't have only one child, and it died, and time he got to be about sixty-eight years old he'd saved up and was hirin' out his money at about as high a p' cent. as anybody. Made it all just tradin' and bein' careful what he spent. 'Careful?' He wouldn't buy hisself a pair of britches but once in eight years, and when his old sister that lived with 'em says one day she was bound to see what the inside the pitcher show theater looked like just once before she died, why, old Goodfield and his wife says that was the last straw, and they fixed up and had her hauled off to live on the county. His wife was just the same as him, too.

"Well, along about the middle o' the hard winter, three years ago, Goodfield took sick, and his wife told the neighbors they both thought it was a pretty good thing, comin' on him in the cold weather that way, because fuel was so high and a person in bed don't need to use any. They wouldn't hear of callin' in the doctor, and for two or three weeks the neighbors and old friends, most of 'em, was sure he was goin' to die, but then he begun to look so well there didn't hardly seem to be much hope.

Old Goodfield Walks In.

"He got to goin' out and shamblin' around again, and for awhile there wasn't nobody noticed anything much different. I reckon I was the first, and it come about mighty queer. It was like this: I was workin' in my shack one night pretty late, tryin' to spell out what was the matter with a carburetor I'd brought up from my boat, when there come a tap on the door, and old Goodfield walks in. I was kind o' surprised to see him, but I didn't say nothin' 'cept 'Good evenin',' and all of a sudden he says, 'Do you know how much money I'm worth?'

"He said it just like that—nothin' before it—and I said, 'For the Lord's sake, Mr. Goodfield, what's the matter?' He looked kind of funny to me.

"'I'm worth a hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents,' he says.

"'Well, by Orry!' I says.

"Well, sir, he begun to pant like he'd been runnin' up a hill; he got to heavin' like a winded horse; then he begun to cry and sob like a woman that's all excited when some one's just died. 'Well, by Orry!' I says. 'You better set down and quiet yourself,' I says. 'What's the matter?'

"'I got to die,' he says. 'I been sick,' he says. 'I been sick and I got to die!'

"'Well,' I says, 'we all got to die.'

"He kep' straight on cryin' and pantin' and sobbin'.

"'Yes,' he says, 'but I never knowed I had to! I never knowed it before I was sick. I kind o' thought I wouldn't reely haf to, when it come right down to it.

"'We're all fixed that way,' I says. 'We all got to have some sickness we won't get over.'

"Well, sir, he let out a yell that just about rose my hair. 'The rest of you ain't got a hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents!' he hollers. 'And I got to die!' he says; and he kep' on kind of shoutin' it. 'I got to die! I got to die! I got to die!' And then he pitches over before I could catch him and fell down on a couple o' busted lobster traps.

"Ole Cap. Whitcomb, he woke up in his shack next door and put on some clo'es and come in, lookin' scared to death. Him and me picked Goodfield up off the traps and got him home, half carryin' him, and him kind of whimperin' and slobberin' right on to when we left him doubled up on a rickety chair at his own house.

"Next day he was around, just about the same as ever, and never said nothin' about nothin', and the week after that he took Fred Owens' boat in for a debt, and you couldn't told there was anythin' the matter with him. What I mean, you couldn't told nothin' on him in daytime, but after dark he'd go shamblin' all around the village, and then when it got late, if he see a light somewheres, he'd go in there and have a spell just the same he had with me. Scared people with them spells, he did.

The Last of Goodfield's Money.

"'Long about September his wife up and supprised everybody, because she went to all the expense of havin' the old man declared insane and hauled off to the asylum. He cut his throat with a piece of broken bottle up there, and the funniest thing happened—they found the old woman dead the same afternoon in their house here. The court gave the estate to a trust company, and I guess that was the end of old Goodfield's hundred and twenty-four thousand three hundred and sixty-three dollars and fifty-one cents.

"'Well, sir, you know all that about old Mr. and Mrs. Goodfield made a kind of a sensation, as you might call it, and there was quite a good deal of thinkin' and talkin' about it here in the village. There was some that claimed they figgered out how it all was meant to mean somethin'.

"'Anyway, when the call come from Halifax last December we sent off mighty near half a carload of first-rate clothin' right in a few hours, and there was two hundred and seventy odd dollars susscribed just in the village, and you know there wasn't hardly any of us real sure we could see the winter through ourselves.

"'Yes, I'll put my name down for the Red Cross, and I'll shell out. I guess you won't have much trouble gittin' susscriptions from the rest, either. We got a good many boys from here over there now, and we wouldn't like to think of 'em shot and layin' out in the fields twistin' around and nobody to tend 'em because us at home hadn't found out yet that it's a mistake to think we're still goin' to have our savin's right nice and with us when we're dead!'"

SOLDIERS NATURALIZED

Camp Lee Celebrates as Men of Nine Nationalities Take Oath.

Petersburg, Va., May 21.—One hundred and sixty-four aliens in the national army division at Camp Lee were naturalized here Sunday after formal exercises celebrating the occasion. The men were chiefly draftees from Pennsylvania, Italians predominating, but nine nationalities were represented.

A regimental band played the national airs of the allies during the administering of the oaths which gave American citizenship to the soldiers.

Nearly 800 more in the 80th division remain to be naturalized.

STRIKE DECLARED OFF

Norfolk Railway Harbor Tugs and Passenger Barges Temporarily Tied Up.

Norfolk, Va., May 21.—A general strike of crews of railway harbor tugs and passenger transfer barges, which began unexpectedly last week, has been declared off, but it will be several days before the congestion caused by the temporary tie-up is relieved. The request of the strikers for an increase in wages was referred to Washington for final adjustment some time ago, but the tug and barge men became impatient and decided to force the issue. A majority of the tugs are again in commission.

HUN PLANE DROPS

Great Air Raid on London by Gothas Does Little Damage.

London, May 21.— The Evening News, commenting on Sunday night's German air raid on London, in which thirty-seven persons were killed and 155 injured, says:

"It is only an incident in the great air duel now being fought." A curious feature of the raid was that a nightingale sang throughout the barrage of the anti-aircraft guns. Three bombs fell on the country-side in Kent and two in the sea.

'Last night's raid," says a Central news dispatch, "was one of the most ambitious attempts yet made by the enemy against London."

The damage in London is described as small in comparison with the magnitude of the effort.

The Star says the destruction of four of the raiders' marks and improvement in the London defenses, and gives hope for further improvements.

A Central News dispatch says the inhabitants of country towns watched a thrilling fight between a British machine and a German raiding plane, in which the latter was compelled to turn back in its flight toward London, and was brought down, after a spectacular machine gun duel at close range. The German machine crashed to the country-side.

WILSON NAMES GENERALS

Full Rank Now Possessed by Three Officer in U. S. Army.

President Wilson yesterday made nominations which will provide the United States army with three officers of the high rank of general. He also separated the aircraft division from the Signal Corps before the ink was dry on his signature to the Overman bill which provided authority for the latter step.

Major General Peyton C. March was named to be chief of staff. The office carries the rank of full general. General March has been serving as acting chief of staff since Major General Tasker H. Bliss went to Europe.

General Bliss was nominated to be brevet general and designated as permanent representative of the United States on the Interallied War Council, which meets at Versailles.

General John J. Pershing, as Commander-in-Chief of the American expeditionary forces, already carries the rank of full general. The promotions for March and Bliss are said to have become necessary on account of the constantly increasing responsibility of American commanders for the conduct of the war.

RAOUL LUFBERY KILLED

Leading American Flyer Shot Down by German Triplane.

Paris, May 21.—Major Raoul Lufbery, the first American ace to be killed as the result of an aerial fight, was buried yesterday with full military honors by French and American detachments.

Major Lufbery, who had been regarded as the best aviator in the American air service, was shot down in flames and killed by a big German triplane which he was attacking. Lufbery jumped from his flaming machine when 800 yards above the ground. He had 18 victories to his credit.

The German machine which brought Lufbery down, which was armed with two machine guns with an operator for each piece, apparently escaped.

Lufbery's only wound, aside from those received when he crashed to earth, was a bullet hole through the thumb. Apparently the same bullet punctured one of the gasoline tanks of his machine.

The German machine was under heavy anti-aircraft fire several times both before and after the air fight, and one explosion of a shell upset the enemy plane, but it managed to straighten out again.

Killed In Auto Crash.

Winchester, Va., May 21. — Jacob Cave, a drafted man who was to have left soon for camp, was instantly killed Sunday night near Millwood when an automobile crashed into a telephone pole. His head was split open.

FRENCH SMASH FORWARD

Blow Northwest of Kemmel Nets Poilus 400 Prisoners.

London, May 21.—The French Sunday night delivered a smashing blow against the German front northwest of Kemmel, in Flanders, netting them more than 400 prisoners in an advance over a front of 4,000 yards.

This important progress was made east and northeast of the village of Locre, which is the pivot of the allied front protecting the southern flank of the Ypres salient. The success deprives the Teutons of valuable ground which would have served them as jumping off terrain in the impending drive. It bars the approaches to Locre even more firmly and adds to the possibility of a French drive against Kemmel if and when the moment is deemed favorable.

RUSSIANS TAKE TOWNS

Turks Report Bolshevik Advance on the Caspian Sea.

Amsterdam, May 21.—Russian bolshevik troops, according to a telegram from Constantinople, have succeeded in capturing the towns of Petrovsk, on the west shore of the Caspian, 200 miles north of Baku, and Oerentkapoi.

London, May 21.—The Turks have resumed the offensive all along the Caucasion front and have occupied Van, says a dispatch from Tiflis dated May 12. Another Armenian massacre has been begun. The negotiations for a separate peace between the Caucasian diet and the Ottoman government have been broken off on account of the exorbitant demands of the Turks.

The ruthless methods of the Germans in attempting to gather foodstuffs in the Ukraine are meeting with bitter opposition from the exasperated populace. District assemblies throughout the Ukraine decided to burn all bread and other provisions.

Everywhere the Germans are appointing their own officials, while the country is groaning from hunger, misery and slavery.

Almost the entire population is armed. Attempts by the Germans to disarm the people are meeting with deadly resistance. The towns and villages are reported to have been burned.

Rapid Increase of U. S. Forces

London, May 21.—"Parts of northern France," says Reuter's correspondent with the British army, "are suddenly thickly populated with American fighting troops. Six weeks ago only an occasional American was seen in Flanders. The British nation is satisfied that the comradeship-in-arms is sincere."

Give to the Red Cross

Every Cent of Every Dollar Received for the Red Cross War Fund Goes for War Relief.

The American Red Cross is the largest and most efficient organization for the relief of suffering that the World has ever seen.

It is made up almost entirely of volunteer workers, the higher executives being without exception men accustomed to large affairs, who are in almost all cases giving their services without pay.

It is supported entirely by its membership fees and by voluntary contributions.

It is today bringing relief to suffering humanity both military and civil, in every war torn allied country.

It plans tomorrow to help in the work of restoration throughout the world.

It feeds and clothes entire populations in times of great calamity.

It is there to help your soldier boy in his time of need.

With its thousands of workers, its tremendous stores and smooth running transportation facilities, it is serving as America's advance guard—and thus helping to win the war.

Congress authorizes it.

President Wilson heads it.

The War Department audits its accounts.

Your Army, your Navy and your Allies enthusiastically indorse it.

Twenty-two million Americans have joined it.

Don't wait to be asked—Give and ask others to do likewise.
